Rocky Favored To Win Oscar

Rocky is a narrow favorite to edge out Network as best movie of the year Monday night, according to Louie the Greek, a local odds-maker.

"It figures to be close but I give the nod to Rocky," he said in an interview. Both movies will win a lot

While he picks Rocky to win top honors, Louie selects the two stars from Network, Peter Finch and Faye Dunaway, as likely Oscar winners as best actor and best actress. The Times and CJVI are sponsoring a contest offering a trip for two to Hollywood for the first entry drawn that has correctly predicted the three major Oscar winners. "I make Rocky a 6-5 favor-

Rental Cars Soon At Ferry Terminals

Car rental offices will probably be set up at the Swartz Bay and Tsawwassen ferry terminals by the end of April, Ken Stratford, B.C. Ferries traffic manager, said Friday.

The rental offices will allow ferry commuters to leave their own cars on one side and rent a car on the other.

Stratford said in Vancouver he had received about a dozen replies from parties interested in setting up the car rental business, but I would be in the $17 to $20 range. In order to get the business, they're going to have to charge competitive with the two-way cost of taking a car back and forth on the ferry run, which now is $20.

A cold metallic sun in an azure sky gleams down on the scene, reminicent of a realistic collage on the glories of transportation. The tiers of Peter Lougheed's empire are all around him on the banks of the North Saskatchewan River.

Ninety odd years ago Blackfoot Indians massed on the south shore of the river ready to attack Fort Edmonton where the sandstone legislature now stands. Today the cavernous marble foyer of the building, resplendent with Corinthian columns and a gurgling fountain centrepiece, recalls a Roman bath or a Hollywood soundstage.

Upstairs past the usual phalanx of factotums and secretaries you come face to face with the blue-eyed Arab himself. For premier who conjures a variety of cknames Lougheed is a deliberate, methodical and almost colorless man.

Handsome in the square jawed conventional manner, he answers questions carefully and tentatively. Impatience and anger rarely surface, although mention

By GEORGE OAKE

"Albertans are quite clearly Canadian before they are Albertan . . . I think what I've been representing is their feelings of being a more significant part of the future of Canada, and we think we have both the talent and resources to do that. There are people in Ottawa and Toronto who would like to maintain the status quo. The status quo won't be maintained and the decisionmaking is going to shift west of Toronto, and west of Ottawa in this country." Lougheed sees the process as part of

'an inevitable evolution in Canada" with the west comparable in economic strength to Ontario, and a balance to central Canada's domination of the country since

If the premier knows exactly where Alberta fits into the Canadian puzzle he is vague about other pieces. The British North America Act is generally satisfactory as a constitution with two important caveats. The supreme court of Canada should be restructured so it is clearly a constitutional court balancing regional and provincial thinking. Ottawa sh also show a new respect for the old division of powers. In the premier's words so "I will continue doing my duty, speak-ing strongly for Alberta, and we are in a sense, geographically in the middle of the west. We're also more involved because and . . . because of our resource strength Perhaps those factors give a higher profile to what I say than others, but I don't consider myself as any regional spokesman.

Instead, Lougheed concentrates his considerable energies on Alberta, unfurling long-term economic strategies reminiscent of a communist five-year plan. Forty-eight per cent of the province's budget revenues this year will pumped out of the ground, resulting in the lowest personal taxation rates in Canada. But the greying 48-year-old premier and most other Albertans have a fear bordering on obsession about the day when the pumps suck air, not oil.

Through its own resources, the Alberta
Heritage Trust Fund and the state-initated Alberta Energy Company, the government is encouraging secondary agriculture processing, petrochemical plants that will eventually produce plastics, and various other industries.

New emphasis is being placed on tourism after an excellent increase in revenue last year. British Columbians forget the province has year-round attractions with hot springs, well-developed ski facilities, lots of night life, and no sales tax. Alberta's only slight geographical ad stone in government planning as the premier collects airlines like ordinary mortals buy cars. He is currently trying to

there is not constant pressure from Ottawa to subtly change the terms of Confederation by taking resource nership away from the provinces.

He displays a peculiarly sanguine, almost sympathetic, attitude towards Rene Levesque's election last Nov. 15.

"I'm pretty optimistic, but my nature is to be optimistic. I think we have to see how the new government of Quebec and the people of Quebec come to grips with the situation there, both in terms of their economic challenges and the reality of whether they can survive independently or want to . . . What it comes down to is that a lot of French-speaking people in Quebec sions made by the people they elect to their provincial government in Quebec City. It's really no different from the

The Alberta attitude, as embodied by Premier Lougheed, embraces a pan-western philosophy and a sense of con-fidence bordering on the mystical. Nurtured on Confederation's economic injustices and a new resource-based muscle.

Northeastern Coal

"This is an area our respective ministers of transportation Dr. Horner and Jack Davis discussed at the western premiers' conference a year ago. Yes, we definitely think there is quite a considerable area of mutual co-operation here, both in terms of the development of the northern part of British Columbia and by way of access to tidewater for us.'

Asked if the Alberta government would be willing to invest in northeastern coal development or loan money Lougheed replied: "Very much so, but they would have to be, of course, in a specific project nature and I think they can be . . . I don't think we've got to that stage yet . . . it's been more of working together and trying to get away from some of the obstacles the federal government has put in the way of such development. I see progress being

With 69 of the 75 seats in the provincial legislature safely tucked under his Tory wings Lougheed talks of Alberta's stability and how it draws financial investors like bees to honey. He hustles too. Last year he took an entourage of 110 to Europe drumming up business. This year he will visit the shah of Iran and the Soviet Union.

"I think we will develop as the finincial centre of western Canada," he says non-"although Vancouver will always be a significant factor:

"We have the largest computer in-dustry in Canada centred in Calgary. The other is in the medical research side where out Alberta Heritage Trust Fund will be putting a lot of commitment, and I suppose I should mention the oil sands technology and research authority that will bring in a very significant number of highly-skilled scientists."

The mild, almost offhand manner disguises an iron will and deadly serious in-tent. Obstacles of transportation and marketing don't phase him. Like his predecessors, the Aberharts and Mannings whose footfalls once echoed through the fover of Quebec marble, Lougheed has a

I am amazed these days to pick up a newspaper or listen to the news on radio and television to hear of the current activities of Margaret Trudeau. "He's mine," the boy replied warily.

The pet dog is making a comeback in Peking. Dogs were killed and banned from Peking in the early 1950s but during the past few months they have been she up all over the place. An increasing number of puppies and full-grown dogs, usually accompanied by one or two young boys, are being spotted in the back streets

Stop Burglars

The reasons behind the upsurge in the urban canine population are uncertain. Perhaps as authority declined last year, local officials neglected such housekeep. ing jobs as enforcing the dog ban while they worried about more press of public order. Or maybe the lack of public order prompted some Chinese families to recall that the dog is about the most convenient anti-burglar device available in China. And certainly the collective memory of dog packs in the cities before 1949 must have faded somewhat

Some years ago, a myth developed that there were "no dogs in China" at all. But they survived communism very well in the rural areas where they did and still do shepherd the livestock and act as watchdogs, presumably against class

In the cities, however, the communists set to work soon after their 1949 victory to eliminate the dog population. Chinese and foreigners who were around at the time recall a number of reasons, probably all of them cited at the time, why the dogs had to go. They ate too much valuable food; many of them roamed around vild; they spread diseases. There are also Chinese who even today will tell you, in all seriousness, that disease swept the dog population of Korea and China due to bacteriological warfare waged by the United States during the Korean War.

What we do know is that the communists didn't fool around when it came to eliminating city dogs in the early 1950s. The story of how it was done, here in Peking, is told by a Chinese who saw it happen, and by a western diplomat, who league saw it happen. According to these stories, which mesh in all important respects, a work crew fenced off one end of a street or alley and then, beginning at the other end, called on every household to surrender its dogs which were then herded, along with any strays, down the street toward the fence. When all the dogs were cornered, they were soaked with Then someone touched a live electric wire to the water, electrocuting

After that, apparently, no one saw much of the pet dog in Chinese cities. But two years ago, the authorities in Canton were clearly bothered by a canine comenotice dated Feb. 1, 1975, Canton's public health authority reminded citizens that 'some units and individuals" were persisting in keeping dogs. "The rearing of declared, "and all those who have dogs must kill them or hand them over to be kil-

The notice didn't say whether the Cantonese wanted the dogs for petting or for eating. It concluded with this stern, and rather startling, warning:

"If in the future any person is hurt by a dog or killed by a dog then the cost of any hospital fees, medicines or funeral expenses will be borne by the person responsible for rearing the dog. Dog-rearing will be treated as a serious offence and class enemies who commit it will be subjected severe penalties and rigorous dis-

Despite these warning posters, the Canton authorities are still being dogged by the problem. Several weeks ago, my wife and I were walking along a side street in Canton when we looked up a laneway and spotted a group of men squatting around the body of a dog which had obviously just been killed. They were scraping off its black hair, leaving a broadening patch of white skin. The men were reluctive to the scrap black right their direct for tant to pose, along with their dinner, for my wife's camera.

Dishes Sampled

Dog meat has apparently retained a limited but devoted following among Chinese both north and south. Here in Pek ing, it is nearly always available at a handful of restaurants. The Kansu Restaurant in Peking normally offers four dog dishes on its menu: Dog Jewels, stewed dog's leg, dog meat in broth and dry-fried dog. On a recent visit my dinner companions and I chose Dog Jewels because, first, we like spicy food and, second, we felt that if dog meat really had a "doggy" taste then the spices would overpower it. The dish turned out quite well. The meat was lean and tender - obviously the meat of a nicely

There is a wealth of Chinese folklore about dog meat. That of yellow dogs is supposed to be best while that of black and white dogs is inferior. It is still widely dogs is illegal," the poster notice believed that dog meat is best eaten in the winter, because it somehow warms the blood. But a book on Chinese folk medicine carries the following warnings about dog

> 'Eaten with garlic, it is weaken Taken by pregnant women, the offspring will be dumb. Taken after a fever, murder will be committed. Should not be eaten in the ninth moon

Yet this same meat is recommended because it is "quietening to the five viscera, good for fractures, beneficial to the respiration, an aphrodisiac (and) warming to the back."

There must be communes around the big cities like Peking which raise dogs for the restaurants. But this is one form of "side-line production" which foreigners have rarely if ever seen in China in recent years. At the turn of the century, according to a visiting foreigner, there were thousands of small dog farms, all over northern China where hundreds of animals were raised each year. It was common in those days, he wrote, for Chinese women to receive a few dogs as a dowry so they could start a dog farm.

One way or another, the dog business must be pretty well organized in China. The best proof of that isn't the dog meat that ends up on some people's plates but the dog-hair pelts which are seen on some people's backs. The pelts are readily available in some city stores and some available in some city stores and some city stores apparently use them to line their winter coats. Some foreigners have bought the dog-hair pelts for use as throw-rugs. The wife of one western diplomat sports a well-cut "fur" jacket with a lovely tawny color that reminds westerners of Golden Labrador Retrievers they once knew.

When this woman was asked to model her jacket for a photograph to accompan this article, her diplomat husband, hearing outrage from pet lovers in his home country if they discovered the awful truth. declared quite firmly that no photographs would be taken. The traditional way of killing a Chinese dog valued for its fur, after all, it to strangle it, thus avoiding any unsightly knife marks.

there any other country that pays more (to its senior civil servants) than Canada?" Allen T. Lambert: "I'm not aware of

In order to fully appreciate the significance of that exchange it is necessary to un-derstand that Allen T. Lambert is not your average man on the street. He is, in addition to being the chairman and chief ex-ecutive officer of the Torontoon Bank, the chairman of the federal government's advisory group on executive compensation in the public service. To reduce the title to meaningful terms, Mr. blue-ribbon panel selected by the Trudeau government to set wage and salary scales for the executives in the civil service of Canada.

Monday, Mr. Lambert and his colleagues made public the advisory group's fifth report, which calls for pay raises for the 2,400 individuals who comprise the so-called executive category. If the government accepts the proposals, the top salary for top deputy ministers will be raised to $70,800. The top salary at the bottom end of this executive category would be boosted to $40,800. The occupants of these positions, as you may already have been aware, are not noted for buying the local supermarkets out of hamburger helper. Mr. Lambert and associates have cleverly fudged the numbers so that it is impossible to state, with precision, what the over-all percentage increase is that they are proposing. But let it be said proposing. But let it be said that the proposed increases are the maximum allowable under the wage and price control

In April of 1975 this group received a 10-per-cent wage raise. In December of the same year, the prime minister announced that all executive salaries were being frozen until April 1, 1977. Some freeze. The new pay raises recommended by the Lambert group would take place in two stages: the first retroactive to April 1, 1976 and the second next week, on April 1, 1977. Should the april 1, 1977. Should the government accede to the recommendations (it always does) a top deputy minister will have received in the 15 months since the alleged freeze was imposed a salary boost of $4,800 per annum, not including any other benefits, such as the world's most generous pension and retirement plan.

In fairness, Mr. Lambert and his backup panel of corporate executives did recommend that Ottawa consider scaling back the generous pension scheme, which now enables a civil servant to retire on a fully-indexed pension at age 55. The Lambert group figures that fullyindexed pensions should be available only at "normal retirement age" and that the rate of indexing should be reduced "so that it is clearly brought in line with contribu tions based on earnings.

Finance Minister Don Macdonald, for one, has already made emphatically clear that he would veto any attempt to scale back the pension plan. The answer, says Macdonald, is for the private sector to pull up its socks and provide its The Lambert group argues that the private sector simply can't afford such schemes.

But the whole pension argument is almost incidental to the logical problems raised by this latest report on compensation. For years, the salaries empted from collective bargaining have been set ac-cording to a rough test of "comparability" with private industry. The tests are inexact at best. There are no equivalents in private industry of civil service mandarins. The Lambert group does not argue with that, But what it has done is to propose a few rough equations. It suggests, for example, that a equivalent of the chief erating official of a private mpany. By this test, according to the Lambert researchers, the civil service is

There is, however, a problem here and it is this: Canadian civil servants already are the highset-paid in the world. To be more exact, Canadian senior civil servants earn more than civil servants in the United Kingdom, France, West Ger-many or the United States. The Lambert report notes, tersely and without any elaboration in the United States, compensation tevels in the public sector are materially lower than other countries reviewed." No statistics were provided. In view of this information, the question that must be asked is whether 1. the comparability test is a valid one and 2 whether somebody isn't cook ing the books a little. Executives working in the employ of Canadian private companies are not, even members of the Lambert group agree, among the highest-paid in the world or even in the four countries mentioned above. This being the case how can Canadia civil servants, whose pay allegedly is tied to the Canadian private sector, end up as the highest-paid public employees in western world?

'It's a great place for raptors, too I dropped these immortal words a couple of weeks ago dur-ing a conversation with some friends while extolling the vir-tues of a mid-March trip to the Reifel Waterfowl Refuge. They were innocent enough words but, since I had said them to point out that there was more to Reifel than waterfowl, and since I had used them to coerce those same friends to join me in a visit to Reifel, they somehow haunted me. It was as if, having made the statement, it would be my responsibility to produce.

Well, that fateful day arrived when we all trooped off to Reifel, and let me tell you what happened: I did produce — at least Reifel produced — at least Reifel in the broadest sense, including any lands of the Fraser Della that we passed through to get to the refuge at the mouth of the Fraser.

Having now made all the proper qualifying statements, I can say that the day of raptors — birds of prey — began with a Red-tailed Hawk drifting over the fields somewhere south of Ladner. I only mention the Red-tail because, while we can see these big broad-winged gliders almost any day here on Vancouver Island, the presence of one near Riefel was important to my point that it (Reifel) is a great place for rap-

But while the Red-tail may have been rather dubious in making my point, the next raptor seen wasn't! It was a bona fide product of Reifel, in winter. For most of those who managed to find the soaring speck against the blue sky, our next raptor may have seemed no more than that — a speck. But before the bird got too far out of range it revealed the longer-winged and longer-tailed proportions of a Roughlegged Hawk — a winter visitor from the high Arctic. Before it passed completely from view, the Roughleg did one thing that would have identified it under most conditions one using that would have identified it under most conditions even if its other field marks has been missed — it hovered briefly, hanging in one spot over the field, beating its greatwings slowly, and carefully scanning the ground below. And hovering, for a big, road-winged hawk, is a trade mark of the

We were inside the Refuge itself, just inside, when the next raptor hove into view, making me feel much more relaxed about my assessment of Reifel as a place for rap-

Day of the Raptors At Reifel Refuge

The appearance of two more Red-tailed Hawks was enough to convince me that my reputation as a soothsayer was safe, but a Gyrfalcon—such as the pale one I'd seen at the Refuge in December — or a Short-eared Owl, or at least one more representative of the raptor clan, would assure my

Well, almost needless to say, my reputation wasn't saved by a Gyrfalcon — or even a Short-eared Owl — but by a much more prosaic denizen of Reifel, one I'd almost forgotten — a

For some reason, neither the drive to the Refuge from the ferry terminal, nor the lunch-break before we entered the Refuge, had produced a Marsh Hawk. And with the excitement of Gadwalls, Green-winged Teals, Coots and Mourning Doves crowding my attention, the Marsh Hawks had been considered. But they were not about to let that situation had forgotten. But they were not about to let that situation hold

Soon after the Kestrel, and two more Red-tails, went into the book, the first Marsh Hawk hove shakily into view. I say the book, the first Marsh Hawk hove shakily into view. I say shakily, because kinking back and forth and up and down low over the fields Marsh Hawks give the impression of being unsure on their wings. It's a false impression because, despite appearances, Marsh Hawks are experts at working fields in search of mice and, when they've found their quarries, catching them. catching them.

Our first Marsh Hawk that day was a rich, reddish brown female. So were the next half-a-dozen, but just after I'd comfemale. So were the next nair-a-dozen, but just after a completed making another of my generalizations—the one that goes something like "The pale, guil-colored males are rare around here"—to anyone prepared to listen, a male dropped in over a line of bare trees, banked sharply, kinked back and forth a couple of time so that there would be no doubt about what he was, and left for more productive pastures.

More Oil Exploration Urged

EDMONTON (CP) more concerted exploration effort can increase Canada's oil reserves, says A. M. Molntosh, retiring chairman of the Alberta division of the Canada's dian Petroleum Association.

McIntosh, in his annual re-port to the association's board of directors, outlined a sixpoint program to increase hy-drocarbon reserves.

He urged the industry to: Start more advance and sophisticated seismic all areas.

Begin more deep drilling.

—Work and rework drilling plays on the plains to locate elusive stratigraphic traps.

 —Begin more research and development to perfect third-level recovery methods and reduce high costs.

—Study in-place recovery of oil sands oil and heavy oil, in-leditor with removed. oil sands oil and neavy oil, including pilot projects.

—Begin more research and development of mine-based recovery from soil sands.

McIntosh said drilling com-pletions in Canada in 1976 reached a record 4,960 wells, with firms drilling more than 15 million feet, a 30-per-cent increase compared with 1975.

In Alberta, record drilling operations uncovered an additional 3.5 trillion cubic feet of natural gas.

But the drilling programs
"did little to help the worsening oil reserves position."

"The answer", is not to despair, but to work harder."

McIntosh urged govern-ments to consider a fiscal regime "that will allow more companies to participate in these very expensive endeav-

Lawyer Ted Pollard, representing Peter McInnes and others with mobile homes at the park, applied to court for a judicial review of the rena judicial review of the ren-talsman's decision saying there was an error in law.

He told judge E. J. C. Stewart that landlord Lester Drysdale, who with his wife and daughter comprised Shirltable and wanted the mobile homes out so he and his wife could enjoy the property — where they live in a house — without administering the mobile home park.

But he contended that where the landlord is a corporate entity, termination no-tice can only be served if the property is required by the corporation and not its individual shareholders.

He said the Drysdales don't intend to use the premises for jury system, and why is it 12 jurors for criminal cases? — DV.

A: The jury's real origin lies in the ancient inquisition of the Carolingian kings dating from the 9th century where groups of disinterested neighbors were required to royal rights, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica. This institution was carried into the Duchy of Normandy and thence to England via the Norman conquest of 1066. King Henry II (1154-89) required in 1166 that 12 men be present at every county court session to present to his jus tices the names of persons su-spected by them of serious crime - the beginning of the crime — the beginning of the grand jury. But the persons named by the grand jury were sent to trial by ordeal, in which the defendant was subjected to various tortures that if successfully endured proved his innocence.

King Henry III ordered substitution of judgment by neighbors for the ordeal in 1219 but it was not until the mid-14th century that the grand jury became separate from the petit or trial jury.

The size of the petit or trial jury was set at 12 in 1367. General reference books do was originally set at 12 but there is some local specula-tion that the origin is religious In nature, because Christ's sage was carried by 12

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO ALL CBers

The Federal Department of Communications, Pacific Region (B.C. and Yukon Territory), announces the following emergency use of General Radio Service (CB) channel 13 (27.115 MHZ) and Channel 23 (27.255 MHZ) to become effective April 1, 1977.

EMERGENCY OPERATIONS

One of the most important applications of GRS radio is its potential to provide communications for emergencies such as forest fires, marine rescue, lost persons, highway accidents, etc. There are, however, occasions when channel congestion make the GRS band almost impossible to use for such purposes.

IN ORDER TO ENSURE THE AVAILABILITY OF CHANNELS FOR ESSENTIAL RESCUE OPERATIONS IN AN EMERGENCY, THIS REGION, COMPRISING B.C. AND YUKON TERRITORY, IS DESIGNATING TWO CHANNELS WHICH CAN BE PREEMPTED FROM NORMAL GRS USE FOR THE PERIOD OF THE EMERGENCY. THESE ARE CHANNEL 13.— FOR MARINE EMERGENCY OPERATIONS, AND CHANNEL 23.— FOR LAND EMERGENCY OPERATIONS.

WHAT TYPE OF EMERGENCIES?

The pre-emption of these channels will only be made in cases of recognized emergencies, which are defined as situations which represent a threat to human life, property, or the environment, and require immediate or extraordinary steps to resolve them. The declaration of such an emergency must be made by a responsible municipal, provincial, or federal official, who will also authorize pre-emption of the appropriate channel.

PROCEDURES FOR CHANNEL PRE-EMPTION

The procedure for channel pre-emption will be as follows: a designated emergency officer will transmit a message on the channel, identifying himself and specifying the nature, area, and probable duration of the emergency pre-emption. During the period in which the pre-emption is in effect, the channel will not be used for normal GRS use.

In view of the increased number of GRS channels being made available (from 23 to 40, as of April 1, 1977) and the geographic distribution of emergency incidents in B.C., it is considered that the pre-emption of channels for emergency use will not significantly affect normal GRS communications. The cooperation of all GRS users is solicited in avoiding use of either of the channels concerned during periods of emergency pre-emption, when the safety of human lives or the protection of property may be at stake.

LIABILITY FOR CHANNEL MISUSE

Departmental monitoring stations will assist in the enforcement of this new procedure by monitoring the emergency channel usage. Anyone deliberately causing interference to a preempted channel is liable to suspension or loss of his or her

The provisions of this notice become effective on April 1, 1977. For further information, contact your local district office at the following address:

Russia gears up for ski tourists

By LARRY ELDRIDGE CHEGET, Russia — Alpine skiing, a "capitalist" sport long given scant attention by the Soviet Union, is beginning to gain a foothold of populari-ski, of course, but it is the cross-country version of the sport that has long been domi-nant here — both for recreanant here — both for recreation among the masses and for competition on an international level.

The estimates I received of the number of people now participating varied widely, from 300,000 to one million. But whichever figure is more accurate it isn't bad for a pastime that was hardly known in the country just a decade or so ago. And it's clear that the people running the program have their eights set even higher.

Even with this growth, the Russians are still far, far behind the traditional European and American powers both in racing and recreational sking. Furthermore, it's obviously going to take them a long time to catch up — if indeed they ever can.

indeed they ever can.
But based on their past history whenever they put their minds to developing a sport, plus the strides they've made over the past decade, it would be foolish to count them out.

"Our first goal is to build up skiling as a mass partici-pant sport," said Leonid Kestler, vice-president of the, Soviet Alpine Ski Federation. "Then and only then do we feel we will have the base necessary to develop consis-tently good racers. Soviet sportsmen have traditionally wn their best results in the mass sports.' Alpine skiing is a long way from meeting this designation in the USSR yet, but it's moving in that direction—and riow for the first time the Soviets are anxious to let the world know about it. Ours was the first group of North Americans invited by the Sports Committee to ski in the Caucasus, look over the facilities as they now exist, and get a briefing on future plans. I must say that not all of "The reasons alpine skiing "The reasons alpine skiing didn't become popular here earlier are historical and geographical," Zyranov said. "They have to do with the character of the country—there are lots of mountains but still more plains. Crossthere is a dire need for better lift capacity, more snow-pack-ing equipment, and greater over-all know-how and experbut still more plains. Cross-country skiing has existed here for centuries, but Alpine for the individual seeking the basic equipment, skis, boots, and poles are in short supply, with only inferior Russian-made items available through legal channels although a flourishing black market enables a fair number of people to purchase better ouality western goods. only for a relatively few

Competitively, the Russians have traditionally been, nowhere on the world alpine scene. The best finish they've ever had in the Olympics was a seventh in the women's downhill by Stalina Korzukhina at Squaw Valley in 1960. And since then they've heen presty much standing Andreev, who is still only he and other top Soviet skiers will be competing even more regularly in the next couple of years, according to Zyranov in an effort to build a representative team by the 1980 Olympics at Lake Placid, New York.

Meanwhile, on the grass roots level, both Kestler and Zyranov noted that programs now exist to start training racers from an early age.

"We have many specialized a chools throughout the country, so a talented boy or girl can usually start getting training somewhere near his home at the age of five or six," Kestler said. "There are also summer camps for the best racers. Then after this initial training, we pick out the best ones as candidates for the national team."

One popular device used by other countries which the Soviets decline to employ, how-ever, is sending a couple of top skiers to train with one of the leading western powers,

"The sport doesn't gain in your country when you do that — only the individuals gain" Zyranov said. "Sending two or three stars to Austria isn't going to do anything to help the masses of skiers here — and that's where we feel the way to the ski lift.

Ancient civilization rises out of jungle

By CHARLES SICK

TIKAL, GUATEMALA Wondering what a trip to this jungle ruin of the great Mayan civilization would be like, we decide to see for ourselves.

We fly to Guatemala City from Los Angeles via Pan Am, arriving about 5 p.m. after a four-hour flight. And this morning we gather before breakfast at Aviateca's terminal at the municipal airport. This casual airline leaves more or less at 9 a.m. daily, using a Convair 440 for the hour's flight to Tikal.

We ease down onto the dirt strip, which appears to be solid limestone. It is too short Tikal's existence was known for centuries by peoples of the Yucatan peninsula. But not until the middle of the last century did officials of this area, El Petan, visit the site, accompanied by an artist who sketched the carved wooden lintels and stone sculptures. It was another 30 years be-fore Tikal was mapped and efforts slowly begun to un-cover the massive temples buried under hundreds of years of jungle growth.

Excavation work was taken up in earnest by the University of Pennsylvania's museum when it began an 11-year study program with the gov-ernment of Guatemala. From that has emerged the farflung city of overpowering stone temples, great, grassy plazas, causeways, palaces, s hrines, residences, ball courts, sacrifice altars, ter-races and other examples of awesome architecture — all planned and built without

At the Great Plaza, the At the Great Plaza, the largest cluster of temples, we feel fike the faithful on a pil-grimage as we begin the long, steep trek to the top of the Giant Jaguar temple. Its narrow, worn steps are tricky, and a sturdy chain has been run down the center to aid the determined climber. Trick is to straddle the chain.

New adventures in old China

CHEUNG CHAU, China — You want to see the old China but you can't get a visa? Relax and have another for-meets the eyeball only a 60-minute-boat ride from the hustle of Hong Kong.

For as little as 60 cents round trip, old China comes slowly into focus from air-con-ditioned, triple-decker ferries plying the South China Sea between here and the Crown colony, island hopping being the latest wrinkle with tourists tiring of Hong Kong's shopping frenzy.

Although only an hour from the neon and noise of Connaught Road, Cheung Chau could be 1,000 miles into the could be 1,000 miles into the interior.

Pressed ducks hang from tattered awnings and noodle vendors weave their way through a maze of narrow, twisting alleys, chanting to housewives who peer from the shadows of ancient structures. Supported primarily by fishermen, Cheung Chau faces a miniature harbor choked with sampans, walla wallas and junks.

Standing on the deck of his boat, Ho Wai Fong looks off into the sunset, giving thanks to the gods who fill the sea with fish and his bowl with rice. Soon he will sail into the darkening waters, lanterns lit for nighttime fishing.

Safe return While Ho Wai Fong is away, his wife will pray at Pak Tai Temple, lighting joss sticks as an offering for his safe re-

Pak Tai, islanders say, is the patron diety of Cheung Chau's first fisherman. Plague that struck the island was suppressed, they insist, by placing an image of their diety in the temple.

Later when a storm swept the island, supersitious vil-lagers attributed the disaster to the influence of evil spirits,

The pirates fled but the spirits remain. Well, who's going to argue with Taoist-and Buddhist priests?

Because of evils past, an annual ceremony is conducted to appease the gods who appease the spirits.
That's Chinese legend,

At the same time the entire island goes on a vegetarian diet. The cats are especially grateful; while the action continues they're safe, from the pot. This goes for Cheung Chau's dogs, too.

Bakery buns

At the same time, towers of bakery buns 60 feet high are paraded through the streets to appease both ghosts and gods.

ON THE GO with Jerry Hulse

Finally, precisely at midnight on the final day of the festival, thousands of islanders scramble up the towers to grab off the buns as a token of good luck.

The higher the bun the better the luck. (It takes no genus to figure out that at 60 feet if some poor-bloke takes a tumble, likely he'll end up a ghost himself.)

Meanwhile, journeys to the island are conducted daily throughout the year by Watertours of Hong Kong, Passage over and back in one of Watertours' ornate junts, complete with beer and soft drinks, comes to 510 a head.

Other ferries call at Lantau, an island four miles northwest of Cheung Chau on the Pearl River Estuary. Twice the size of Hong Kong, Lantau supports barely 20,000 persons, mainly fishermen in the market town of Tai O.

beer as well.

Passengers riding the public ferry disembark at Silvermine Bay for bus pickup to the monastery. Day trippers, on the other hand, take lunch at Ned Kelly's Last Stand, a beachside restaurant operated beachside restaurant operated by a displaced Aussie who named his ramshackle emporium for Kelly, Australia's Billy the Kid. As a sideline, Ned Kelly's also conducts a

Plymouth to rock at Drake salute

By NEIL MORGAN

Britain's enchanting southwest peninsula holds unusual interest this summer. It was 400 years ago next December when Sir Francis Drake sailed from Plymouth, England, with five ships and supplies for 18 months.

Only 59 men came back in 1580 after circumnavigating the earth. But Drake brought treasure worth $12 million in the hold of the Golden Hind, and his voyage helped to launch a golden age of navigation and a new concept of trade among nations. It broke the monopoly held by Spain and Portugal in the New World

Drake's voyage will be cele-brated this summer with pag-eantry and exhibits' at Ply-mouth that will bring histori-ans and sea-leving tourists together from all over the Drake stopped 35 days on the shores of what is now Califor-nia's Marin County to repair his Golden Hind, creating the stuff of what remains a shrill dispute among scholars over the site of his encampment — and the authenticity of a plate of brass now on display in Berkeley's Bancroft Library. It may, or may not, have been erected by Drake.

This summer would be a lively time to visit Plymouth and the Cornwall peninsula at the southwest tip of Britain.

It is Queen Elizabeth's 25th year on the throne, her Silver Jubilee, and eyerywhere Britain will have its best foot forward.

For a visit to Cornwall last summer, my wife and I entrained at London's Paddington Station in early afternoon. Near six we changed at St. Ewe for a 10-minute local train ride to St. Ives, where we stayed overnight at Tre-ganza Castle Hotel. The food was ordinary, but the view of the village from the hotel terrace was exciting. Next morning, we rented a British Ford and began a four-day zigzag of Cornwall that ranks among our favorite

The narrow hedgerov country lanes enforce a slow pace. Village pubs are rich in atmosphere and characters. Old smuggler ports are inhabited by clusters of secretive Cornish people, living in cottages that tier down steep clefts to the sea.

On the second night, we stayed at a country hotel at Budock Vean near Mawnan Smith (next time, we would choose the nearby Meudon, or better still, find a plain up-stairs room at a pub). Durgan is nearby, a lovely seaside village preserved by the Na-tional Trust.

On the third day, we crossed the peninsula to Port Isaac, an exquisite village where the beach serves as public parking lot and cars must be removed before high tide. Nearby is Tingagel, where King Arthur may have lived. We were put off by commercialism such as the King Arthur Filling Station. On the third and fourth nights we stayed at one of the loveliest country hotels we have found in the world. The Tresanton at St. Mawes; across Falmouth Harbor from the town of Falmouth the town of Falmouth.

On our return by car over fast expressways to London, 267 miles, we stopped at Ply-mouth Harbor for lunch and browsing among waterfront shops, museums and antique shops. At Plymouth, one is out of Cornwall and into Devon, a broader land of more sweeping views.

POMPEII. Italy — Entombed nearly 1,000 years ago under a layer of volcanic ash and then uncovered, Pompeii is dying again slowly under the attack of thieves and forces of nature more subtle than exploding Mount

The buried treasure of art and artifacts from ancient Greek and Roman oivilizations today is exposed to the greed of common criminals. Last month, in one of the most spectacular pillages to date, night-time thieves chi-selled 12 paintings from the walls of a Pompeian house.

The brilliant reds and blues of wall paintings preserved under the airtight seal left by Vesuvius's eruption in 79 AD fade a little each year they are exposed to the sun and rain. And the lush vegetation of this southern part of Italy constantly threatens to bury once again the city so pains-takingly uncovered by archeo-logists in the last two cen-

The Italian government employs only 230 people to guard and maintain a city that once had 20,000 inhabitants and now plays host to an average

"The needs of Pompeii are immense," said newly-ap-pointed superintendent Luigi D'Amore. He said all plans for further exeavations have been temporarily suspended to devote maximum attention to preservation of what has already been found. The emphasis of the moment is on security. He said he believes the equivalent of $3.4 million appropriated in mid-1976 for a five-year program at Pompeli will be enough to complete the fence and install a system of lights and anti-theft de-

Statues, pieces of bas-relief, household furnishings and sections of mosaics have been sections of mosaics have been carried off from Pompeii by thieves in recent years and it would be impossible to catalogue all the chips of stone and art fragments hidden in the pockets of souvenir-seeking tourists.

Once the security problem is dealt with, there will be the long-term and more radical problem of how to protect Pompeii from the elements, D'Amore said.

Pompeii is a city without roots since the tons of vol-canic ash sent down on it from Vesuvius collapsed the roofs of homes and government buildings alike. Except for a few temporary roofs to shield particularly well-preserved murals and pavements, the buildings are unprotected from the sun and rain.

D'Amore said he has no in-tention of ruining the esthetics and authenticity of Pompeii by construction of more roof-

Eastern Europe Returns to Bartering

LEIPZIG, East Germany East European countries, seeking to modernize their troubled economies with Western technology but with-out amassing still more debts to the West, are turning increasingly toward an ancient trading technique — barter.

The idea is to press Western companies harder to accept more Eastern manufactured or grown products as part payment for goods bought in

Suicides, Periods Linked

CTTAWA (CP) - Research indicates that many women who commit suicide are suffering from pre-menstrual tensions says Dr. Robert Kinch, a professor of gyneco-

"We are beginning to real-ize that women who suffer from pre-menstrual tension also undergo more hormonal imbalances than others and that water and salt retention often resulting in edema, even in the brain area, produces serious emotional upsets," Kinch told a meeting of science writers Thursday.

Edema is the excessive accumulation of clear watery fluid in tissues.

He said women are also more prone to household accidents during this period, "burning themselves more frequently while cooking and often cutting themselves in the kitchen."

The symptoms of pre-menstrual tension include a bloated feeling, headaches, swollen breasts and often feelings of emotional vulnerability and instability Kinch said.

"An understanding husband who can keep the kids from irritating a mother at these times is also a great help," he said, stressing that women who suffer from pre-menstrual tension are in no way

"Over a couple of billion years, nature has evolved the ability to absorb light and use its energy to move these elec-trons. That's what we've been trying to duplicate," said Katz.

He emphasized that movement of free electrons in chlorophyll still is not fully understood, saying: devised a chlorophyll struc-ture that has electron-emit-ting properties, but we're still long way from under-anding how chlorophyll works in nature.

of birth requirement has been eliminated.

Also the right to citizenship is indefeasible in the first generation born abroad, and it even passes conditionally to the second generation.

Equal rights have been provided in other ways, too. On the other hand, where, in the old act, a woman who was the wife of a Canadian citizen could obtain citizen-ship after a residence of one year, while no similar provision was made for the husband of a Canadian citizen, the new act treats male and female spouses equally with respect to residence require-

Matter of Choice

The new act recognizes that acquisition of citizenship by naturalization, also renuncia-tion of citizenship, unless it involves a question of security, is a matter of choice.

At the same time, the new legislation removes the option that citizenship could be revolked after public inquiry because of change of allegiance. In reducing the residence requirement from five years to three it is cointed out that Spring sale at the Bath Boutique . . .

Funny thing happened on our way to the Bath Boutique this week ... we were stopped in our tracks by a huge blow-up of the front page of N.Y. Times dated Dec. 6, 1933 ... repeal of prohibition day ... which on closer inspection turned out to be a shower curtain, of all things! Talk about a conversation piece in anyone's bathroom! ... Same kind of plastic curtains available in ski patterns, antique sports cars, and other unusual things ... We saw a number of smart bathroom shops in California, but nothing to fouch our own Bath Boutique for variety and originality of bathroom accessories ... just thought we'd tell you this so you'd know! ... Before we go any further we must tell you that Bath Boutique are having a spring sale right now ... started last Friday and continues 'til April 9 ... This is really a fantastic sale with 30% off all their regular merchandise ... It's not a clearance ... there are no discontinued lines, no seconds, no special purchases ... everything will return to its original price once the sale's over ... Meanwhile, nothing's held back ... Shower curtains, bath mats, towels, scales, bathrobes, high quality, famous brand accessories and toiletries ... Every single thing in the store less 30% ... Wonderful opportunity to buy things for gifts or to smarten up your own bathrooms! ... Bath Boutique, James Bay Square, Simcoe and Menzies St., '385-523.

Gowns molded with elegant simplicity . .

Gowns molded with elegant simplicity . . . Gibson's have some of the most beautiful imported evening gowns we've seen in many a day! . . . Chiffon is back in high favor . . . and certainly doesn't need to look all fluttery and cattan-ish, as you'll realize when you see the utterly simple ivory chiffon gown . . long-sleeved, fitted, and falling into a handkerchief skirt . . very nostalgic this! . . White beads and silver band the neck and sleeves, and there's a long scharf . . this same model comes in toast colour . . Another beautiful chiffon dress is a shirt waist with full skirt, beaded bodice and belt . . It's in the palest of yellows . . or a dreamy pale blue . Both of these chiffon gowns are appropriately spring-like . . . yet they can be worn all year around! . Another gown we like is an ivory heavy matte jersey with pearl beaded top, slender shoulder straps and a beautiful scharf . . Available in turquoise too . . And an intermission length dress is a luscious caramel matte jersey styled like a sundress with fitted bustline falling into unpressed pleats . . A short jacket with soft folds on the shoulders and tie neckline, completes the ensemble . . a very useful dress as well as an elegant one! . . And here's a fashion note we'll throw in for free: Get out those pearls . . they've made a real comeback! . . Pin a French silk flower at your waist or shoulder for evening! . . . Christie's has the "Personal Touch".

We never cease to be amazed at the interesting and unusual things people find to do with needlepoint! . . . It's probably old hat to Mrs. Low at Christie's . but we got downright excited when we saw her canvases for making tennis racket covers . . belts . . . godic lub covers . . . key ring tags and luggage tags, to name but a feet. . . We really think any one of these would make wonderful gifts when they're worked up . . and conversation pieces to boot . . Then, of course, there are the semi-worked handbags of which we've probably told you before . Personally, we'd give our eye teeth for one of these beauties! . If you're addicted to needlepoint or petit point, Christie's is THE place to get all your supplies . There are lovely needlepoint printed canvases . petit-point kits, and gauze for 1, 2 and 3 threads . . Standing and lap frames . . Complete lines of Patons and DMC tapestry wool and DMC Persian wool, as well as full lines of DMC and Anchor embroidery cottons . . Absolutely everything you need for creating beautiful needlework . And on top of all this, you get embroidery cottons ... And on top of all this, you get Mrs. Low's "personal touch"! ... She's still assisting people . . . helping them get started on this fascinating hobby . It really makes a big difference when you find a friendly and helpful store like . 1 Christie's, 830 Fort St., 384-8770.

When we visited Eaton's Townhouse this week we discovered that the whole corner over to the left as you come in has been given over to Pierre Cardin clothes, and you'll find-the Pierre Cardin name on this section . Heretofore we haven't been too familiar with Cardin sportsclothes . but we certainly liked those we saw last Monday . There are separate skirts in two styles . one is straight, with little pleats at the sides and patch pocket the other is A-line with two box pleats in front . These are tailored in a linen-like fabric, in black, brown, white and an unusual shade of blue . Slacks in the same fabric and colors . completely lined, and left unfinished at the bottoms for greater ease in turning up . To wear with these, short sleeved pullovers with V-neck and mafching cardigans in blue and black . And Eaton's still have a few of the silky polyester Cardin shirts as well as some nice soft cottons . We like the acrylic knit sundress with short-sleeved jacket . Green, red or navy with white . And another knit with stripes of varying widths, styled with both neck and short sleeves: . red and white or navy and white . All these Pierre Cardin things bear his monogram, done very unobtrusively . Be sure to see them if you long for chic Frenchesigned sportswear * . Eaton's Townhouse, 382-7141, loc. 367.

AT TENDER AGE

April is Dental Health
April is Dental Health Month. As part of the observance, the Times, in co-operation with the Victoria Committee for National Dental Health Month 1977, today begins a series of six articles on facts you should know about dental health.

Q. At what age should my child start using a tooth-brush? Should I help him brush his teeth?

A. The real culprit in dental decay is the colorless film of bacterial plaque that forms constantly on everyone's teeth — even a baby's. You should start cleaning your child's teeth as soon as

Since children are prone to tooth decay, they should clean their teeth after each meal and every night before going to bed. To remove plaque from the outer, inner and biting surfaces of the teeth, most dentists recommend using a brush that has a straight handle, a flat brushing surface and soft, end-rounded bristles. The head of the brush should be small enough to provide easy access to every tooth. Children need brushes smaller than those designed for adults. The most frequent tooth-

START BRUSHING Making Friends in Needlepoint

By MAY E. MacLEAN

Back in January, I had the misfortune to be involved in a car accident, while on my way to visit friends in Vermont. I had to spend two mont. I had to spend two weeks in hospital a considerable distance from my home in Montreal, so that visits from relatives and friends of gauze wrapped around a were spaced apart.

However, after the Pre-school children can be taught to brush effectively, but parental participation and supervision are necessary for several years. By the time the child has all of his first teeth, he should be used to the idea and can do most of the brushing by himself week, I was very glad that I had tucked some needlepoint into my suitcase at the last minute. News of what I was making soon travelled via the nurses to other patients, plus the fact that I was a Canadian with no friends in the vicinity, so that before long quite a few ladies began gathering in my room, and a common interest in crafts was established.

One lady who had spent many months in various hospitals was making her sixth afghan! It was a simple crochet shell pattern over and back, in four colors. She had been carrying the wool up the side, but realized that three strands of different colors was rather hard to camouflage on the finishing round, especially as she was using a knitting worsted weight of wool.

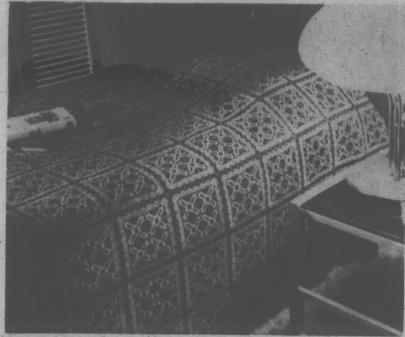

I suggested that she snip each color as she came to the end of each row, and showed her with the aid of my tapes-try needle how one could darn in the ends neatly and without

One other patient who won my admiration was calmly knitting a baby set while waiting through a period of tests before an operation. Her first grandchild will be born in the Spring.

I really want to take good care of my fish, but I really don't want to get into all that measuring and everything with the pHs and nitrates and all that. I've got what's supposed to be the best imitation sea water on the market and I'll replace it with the same stuff of course, but how often? That's all I need to know.-N.G.

DEAR N.G.: With some saltwater setups, "average" care wouldn't be adequate. But for simplicity's sake we'll aim for that "average" tank anyway. Generally speaking, the more often the water is changed, the better since this would keep the toxic nitrate levels to a desirable bare minimum. On a practical level, however, one can avoid the considerably more in-volved complete water changes by changing a per-centage of the water on a weekly basis. When he comes back later, his brother has already gulped down the food. This perplexes Tokay almost as much as his extensive foot work perplexes me. Do cats try to bury their food, or is he protesting the dinner menu?-

By LYNN and JOEL RAPP DEAR LYNN & JOEL: I am enclosing a sketch of my plant which I grew from cuttings. Could you please identify it? However, my problem is how do I control its growth? As shown in the sketch it just one and growth? As shown in the sketch, it just grows and grows until one stalk is so long it hangs down. I'm afraid to cut this stalk for fear of crippling the plant. Please help. I'm running out of space for it — M.H.

DEAR H.M.: You have drawn — and beautifully, we might add — a Nephthytis, or arrowhead plant. (One of Mother Earth's 14 hassle-free guaranteed-to-grow plants.)
And, incidentally, your plant is not in the least uncommon. These plants grow like wild-fire, and cutting them back is only a temporary measure of slowing them down. Before you know it you'll have to get your trusty scissors out again. Do not be afraid to cut the hanging stalk; in fact, after you've cut it or, for that matter, cut off any part of your plant, put the shoots in water until they root and then start new plants from the shoots by putting them in appropriate size pots of sterilized soil.

Vancouver Island Anglicans are being urged to join in prayer and financial support for Christians in Uganda.

Bishop Roy Gartrell this week added his urging to a plea by Archbishop Edward Scott, primate of the Anglican Church of Canada.

The whole Canadian church has been asked not only to pray but to give to help the refugees and those suffering in Uganda," Gar-trell said in an interview.

Earlier Scott referred to "the tragic events in Uganda which have been developing for several years (and) have recently culminated in the death of Archbishop Janani Luwum and many other Christians." "The deaths and continuing repression have deeply affected all of us and there are serious implications for Christians throughout the world," He particularly urged Angli-cans to send Easter cards to the bishops in Uganda. A list of the bishops is available. This serves two purposes, he pointed out. It supports the church in its suffering and also shows the Ugandan government the international contents of the content of the co cern for Ugandan Christians.

A Canadian Anglican priest, John Thompson, who taught for two years at the Bishop ical comment but to express prayers.

The Canadian church has the reception of the growing flood of refugees to neighbor-ing countries. The money came from the Primate's World Relief and Develop-ment Fund.

In Toronto this week Bishop Benoni Ogwal, who succeeded the late Archbishop Luwum as bishop of North Uganda, told a radio audience that all Christians in Uganda are in danger. He said his country is "a huge concentration camp. He and Luwum were members of the Acholi tribe which, along with the Langi tribe, are targets for harass-ment by President Idi Amin. Ogwal said 60 per cent of the 12 million Ugandans are Christians. There are three million Anglicans, three mil-lion Catholics and the rest belong to small Christian groups.

About 10 per cent of the population is Moslem. Ogwal touched on the deterioration of the economy of Uganda and the muzzling of the press. He said Amin has stayed in control as a result of the inflow of money from

YOUR HOROSCOPE

Astrological Forecast for Sunday, March 27 By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Accent on home base, on new approach to security, on bet-ter ways to communicate with older individuals, including parents. Leo, Aquarius figure prominently. You receive legitimate offer — consider it and refuse to be intimidated by one of little faith.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Emphasis on short trip, get-ting message across, dealing with close neighbors and rela-tives. Forces tend to be scat-tered. Know it and consolidate efforts. Cancer person plays key role. Talk business without ignoring spiritual values.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Emphasis on versatility, payments, collections, finding lost articles. Sagittarius — and another Gemini — ngure pro-minently. Protect valuables. Be sure you are not giving up something for nothing. Key is to expand horizons, to spread but to avoid spreading too thin.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Lunar cycle is high — take initiative. Judgment, timing are apt to be on target. Be confident. Emphasize personality, appearance. Personal touch is more important than usual. Know it, act accordingly. Another Cancer figures prominently.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): What happens is apt to be subdued, quiet, behind the scenes. Hospital visit could be on agenda. Keep promise to one who is temporarily han-dicapped, confined. Avoid any display of arrogance or maudlin gushings.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22):
Desire is fulfilled. Wonderful gesture made by loved one.
Family member wants to recommend to the control of the con oncile, to forget differences. Be receptive. Strive for harmony within domestic situation. Marvelous token of affection could be highlighted.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22):
Define terms — take nothing for granted. Steer clear of self-deception, A coent on career, prestige, civic duty, honor, One you respect pays tribute to you. Pisces, Virgo figure prominently. Past obli-gation is fulfilled. You received credit, long overdue.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Good lunar aspect points to long-distance communication, removal of barrier to knowledge. You're able to bring priorities into focus. Older individual is on your side—and you'll know it. Money picture is brighter than may be apparent on surface. Wait for call!

SAGITTARIUS (N.O.V. SAGITTARIUS (N.ov. 22-Dec. 21): Where there was inaction, there now will be confrontation, decision, re-view and accolade coming your way based on recent achievement. Aries, Libra fig-ure in picture. By aiding one who now needs help, you'll be repaid many times over — act accordingly.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Emphasis on part-nership, publicity, marriage. New approach to what seems an old problem is necessary. If you insist on hanging on to losing proposition, expect to pay a steep price. Leo, Aquarius individuals are part of scenario.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. Aguardos (Jan. 26-reb.)

18): Basic services become more important than usual.
Dig deep for information; be aware of material at hand.
Show that you can be practical as well as imaginative.
Cancer and another Cancer — and another Aquarian — will play key

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Be flexible. Show off ver-satility, humor. Give full rein to intellectual curiosity. Ref-use to be limited or painted into corner. Spread emotional wings. Love is part of, scen-ario. Emotional responses Emotional responses dominate logic.

IF MARCH 27th IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you understand suffering; you are a natural actor or actress; you are ca-pable of depicting emotions, of creative responses to energencies. Aries, Libra persons play important roles in your life. August should be your most significant month of 1977, a year in which you travel, gain wider recognition, appear before public, are published and find that many of your views are vindicated.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be practical. Insist on guarantees. Take nothing for granted. Refuse to sell yourself short. Eschew speculative ventures. You have a right to be assured of fair percentage of any profits. Accent of property, contractual arrange-ments. Cancer, Capricorn figure prominently.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Highlight variety, com-munication with relative in transit. Secret is confided by partner or mate. A legal mat-ter, long delayed, surges to forefront. Explore various possibilities. You have right to choose, to pick the best; there is no need to accept second-hand words.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Tear down for purpose of re-building. Means refuse to be trapped by tradition. You have right to choose, to be free - you are free. Know it and act as if aware of it. Aquarius. Taurus, Scorpio persons figure prominently.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Be ready for decisions based on written word. Knowledge is paramount -- lessons are in picture.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): What seemed a possible dis-aster will boomerang — in aster will boomerang — in your favor. Expect a reversal, a miracle. Great expectations should be order of day. A recent dream proves prophetic. A "good dream" comes true. Keep the faith!

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): An individual who talks a great game may not be in position to fulfill committments. Know it and prepare for viable atternatives. Pisces and another Virgo — could involved. Some hopes, wishes will have to be reviewed, revised.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Decision time has arrived. Make up your mind — deal with what is rather than brooding about what might have been, Stop saying "if only." Get down to business. Accent on achievement, recognition, responsibility, re-ward. Personal involvement intensifie.too.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Obtain hint from Libra mes-sage. Finish what you start -complete assignment, project.
You'll be dealing with aggressive persons. Hold your ground — open lines of communication. Get views across don't be discouraged by one who is "dense."

SAGITTARIUS (Nov.

Newsman Sam Ross Dies

VANCOUVER (CP) - Sam G. Ross, who devoted almost 50 years of his life to news, died Thursday in hospital following a lengthy illness. He was 72.

From his start as a copy boy at the Winnipeg Tribune in 1921 until 1969 when he retired as head of Ottawa Radio News Bureau, he was engaged in newspaper, news agency or radio reporting and agency or radio reporting and organization.

His admission to the news hall of fame is but one of many honors that came his way — the Beaver Award, Canada's highest radio-industry award, a special scroll from the Canadian Association. from the Canadian Associa-tion of Broadcasters and an award from the National Press Club of Ottawa are among others.

Ross was born in Winnipeg in 1905 and after a stint at the Tribune moved to the Albertan in Calgary from where he went to the Canadian Press in 1931 as the news co-operative's Calgary correspondent. He was with CP and its associate company Press News Ltd. for 13 years before mov-ing directly to the broadcasting field as director of news and special events for radio station CKWX in Vancouver, one of a group of Western Canada broadcasting stations with which he was associated for the rest of his career.

Ross's CP career took him to Winnipeg, Edmonton, Tomoto and Vancouver as well as Calgary, and from 1938 to 1941 he served in Van-couver as CP's superintendent responsible for British Columbia news.

He returned to Toronto in He returned to Toronto in 1941 and took on the coast-to-coast job of organizing and directing Press News, the then-new broadcasting outlet of CP. He was first manager of PN. Later, a new company, Broadcast News Ltd., was formed to serve Canada's pribroadcasting vately-owned

Soon after joining CKWX in 1944, Ross went overseas as a war correspondent for the western radio group and was with the 1st Canadian Army at the Rhine River crossing in 1945 and later that year at the surrender to the Canadians of the German forces in northwest Europe. He returned to the west coast after the war, helping to develop the CKWX news bureau into one of the largest and most efficient of its kind in Canada.

Ross and CKWX were first recipients, in 1945, of the Beaver Award, in recognition of outstanding news coverage. The award is presented annually by Broadcaster, a mag-azine devoted to the broad-casting industry.

In 1948 Ross became assist-ant manager of CKWX and remained with the station until 1958 when he moved to Ottawa and established Otta-wa Radio News Bureau, pro-viding voice reports from the capital for the stations in the western group.

He continued in this position until his retirement. Ross was the first broad-caster admitted to mem-bership in the Ottawa Press Gallery and was gallery president in 1966.

A Pleasure Movie

We've waited a long time for a movie as sophisticated and as lighthearted as Jean-Charles Tachella's Cousin, Charles Tachella's Cousin, Cousine, a Rabelaisian tale of the comings and goings of a large middle-class French

Cousin, Cousine is a huge success all over North Ameri-ca, getting to the popular movie audiences the way A Man and A Woman did in the mid-60's, and it's likely that it was for this reason that the Odeon management decided The picture has been screened in both a dubbed and a sub-titled version, and it's good to report that the subtitled version was the overwhelming fa-vorite. Subtitling lets us hear the original, and that's impor-tant because even when we have no understanding of the language we can sense the importance of intonation, of tone — we can feel the Cousin, Cousine is full of nuances, both verbal and vi-sual, full of comic shadings that reinforce the exuberant nature of its story. The movie is a pageant of family gatheris a pageant of family gatherings — weddings, holiday paries, funerals, lunches in the country — which are the scene of flirtations, petty jealousies, good-natured grumblings about family duty, and many high-spirited jokes. The kids have all become very good at predicting who will be good at predicting who will be drunk first, who will say what to whom to provoke a fight, and who will sneak off with whom. Their predictions have a clock-work accuracy until two members of the family upset the routine with a de-lightful friendship that turns niddle-class moral codes upside down.

The film begins with the boisterous wedding of Marthe's mother to Ludovic's uncle. The part is merry and chaotic. There is laughter and tears, lots of flamboyant drops his pants to the delight of the kids. Marthe's husband Pascal, a pharmaceutical Audiences have taken to Cousin, Cousine in the mot ex-traordinary way. When I first saw it in Vancouver, I was in-tensely aware of the audience's empathetic response to the characters on-screen. #### 'Gypsy Baron' At McPherson

The Johann Strauss operetta, The Gypsy Baron, is full of typical lilting and melodic music, brimming with Viennese atmosphere and galety. It's the spring choice of Vancouver's North Shore Light Opera Society and the group is bringing it to Victoria for two performances at McPherson Playhouse, Saturday, April 2 at 8 p.m., and April 3 at 2 p.m.

The romantic story con-cerns the return from exile of Sandor Barinkay to find gypsies living in his ancestral home. He falls in love with a beautiful gypsy girl, befriends the tribe and becomes their tions ensue but all, naturally, ends happily.

able and unassuming—there's no sense of pretence.
Tachella's characters live the way they see fit.

Perhaps the movie's most basic appeal though, lies in the choices it proposes for all its characters. Intrinsic to Ta-chella's story is the notion that since we are accountable for our actions it's how we for our actions it's how we chose to play them that will make the difference in terms make the difference in terms of our perspectives on each other. It's a simple premise, but Tachella's movie states it beautifully. It comes down finally to a question of responsibility— and what we respond to in Tachella's movie is the fact that Marthe and Ludovic are openly willing to Ludovic are openly willing to accept it all.

Coulsn, Cousine is a plea-sure of a movie that says a great deal, in a lighthearted comic fashion, about the ro-mance and the responsibility of an affaire de coeur.

APPLETON - MCLEAN

APPLETON — McLEAN
Pastor Don McMillan of Colwood Pentecostal Church officiated in the loyous union of marriage of susan Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs.
Raymond C., McLean, and Constable Ronald R. Appleton, R.C.M.P. son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Appleton of Vancouver, B.C. on March 12th, 1977.

Susan was radiant on her father's arm in a full length white gown and chapel train. The floor length illusion veil was crowned by a cap of matching lace and seed pearls.
Susan's cresent shaped bouquet was of white carnations and red roses.
Ron awaited Susan in his R.C.M.P dress uniform. Attending Susan in light blue empire waist gowns were Marron of Honour, Mrs.
Niki Chance, bridesmaids Miss Donna Appleton, and Mrs. Bonnie House. They carried matching cresent shaped bouquets of blue carnations. Ted Haddóck drove from Missoula, Montana to be Ron's best man. Also standing with Ron were Bob Appleton and Raymond N.
McLean. The men wore navy blue tuxedos.—
The reception was held at the Olde toasted the bride.

After a honeymoon, in Los Angeles, the happy couple will reside in Sooke, B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Municipl officials were generally favorable Friday to changes to property assessment legislation introduced by Finance Minister Evan Wolfe.

affect homeowers in their municipalities.
Under the new system, assessors will determine the full market value of a piece of property and the B.C. cabinet will fix a certain percentage of the value as the assessed commercial properties could be assessed at about 30 per cent of market value.

Don Morton, chairman of the B.C. Assessment Authority, said the 1978 assessment notices will show the full mar-ket value appraisal but that ket value appraisal but that figure can be appealed if people think it is too high. The assessments, he said, are issued in January but the rolls are completed by the previous October.

Morton said the changes will greatly improve the morale of the authority and "will work out so a consider-walue.

For example, it is thought that residential properties will be assessed at about 15 pev cent of full market value and the morale of the authority and "will work out so a considerable measure of equity is returned to assessments in B.C."

The UBCM will discuss the legislation at meetings in Vic-toria starting March 31, he Delta Mayor Tom Goode said his information led him to conclude that the homeowner will pay higher taxes in the future as the burden shifted. "I'm concerned about this as a representative of the property owners," he said. Especially hit will be those in older homes whose assessments have been frozen for the last three years, Goode

He said the four options each municipality will have to select the standard of assess-ment which best meets its requirements for general taxa-tion purposes, "will require a great deal of study by munici-pal administrators before ad-

powerful leaders of the move-ment that ousted Indira Gandhi's government refused today to be sworn into the new cabi-net of Prime Minister Morarji

The boycott turned what was to have been a display of solidarity into a major embar-rassment for the 81-year-old prime minister. It was led by Jagjivan Ram, Desai's chief rival for the prime minis-tership within the anti-Gandhi coalition that won last week's national elections.

Desai and the 14 other government ministers who were sworn in today expressed their ranks can be quickly resolved. L. K. Advani, one of Desai's new ministers, said the three joining Ram in the protest were his closest political ally, H. N. Bahuguna, and Socialists Raj Narain and George Fernandes. The presidential palace had issued a communique late Friday listing the Narain defeated Mrs. Gandhi in the election contest for her seat in Parliament, and Fernandes is a onetime chair man of the Socialist party and an important labor leader.

In a separate development a Delhi chief magistrate threw out a conspiracy case against Fernandes, who had been accused of trying to top-ple Mrs. Gandhi's government through sabotage. Fernandes was freed on bail from prison earlier this week.

Ram's followers had objected to the method used to se-lect Desai as prime minister. Instead of open voting among the legislators of the vic-torious anti-Gandhi movement, opposition leader Jaya-prakash Narayan consulted privately with the legislators and then announced that Desai was the "consensus"

After the swearing-in ceremony, Bahuguna told report-ers that Ram's Congress for Democracy bloc in Parliament would still support Desai's government, even if it for Democracy party, which does not participate in the won 28 seats in the new cabinet.

Vegetable Garden Takes Lots of Time

By JACK BEASTALL

Dear Nellie: Your letter was most interesting, especially the thoughts on growing your own vegetables this year because, as you say, imported produce has gone into orbit.

As to advising what to do and how to do it, that is similar to seeking a three-year course in gardening in one

The best I can do in this let-ter is to outline a few things that require serious consideration before becoming too deeply involved.

This is not an attempt to dampen your enthusiasm. It is an effort to put you on the right track and enable you to reap rewards rather than frustration.

A vegetable garden is quite different to a garden of shrubs and grass. It requires attention every day, at some periods only 30 minutes, at others an hour or two, and the greater part of each weekend.

Can this be worked in to your Can this be worked in to your present schedule?

If I remember correctly. Fred's spare-time interests are golfing, fishing and indoor bowling, and yours are fish-ing, tennis and indoor bowl-ing, which together occupy most evenings and weekends.

With a vegetable garden your spare time will be needed for weeding, cultivating sowing, watering and process ing the different vegetables, with an occasional fish to help expand the budget. Do you think you can make the

He said B.C. Tel has overextended itself with debt amounting to 62 per cent of the total worth of the company. Consequently, shares have dropped below the price most current shareholders

Although the company has kept up dividend payments, the stock is not attractive enough to obtain the large-scale investment required for service expansion.

Radford said B.C. Tel's generally poor earnings growth record, combined with the current high level of interest rates, make it difficult to come up with equity to cover capital requirements.

"Therefore, in order to fi-nance its burgeoning capital requirements the company has been forced to borrow money to an extent which imperils its financial integrity," he told the CRTC.

"The only solution is an increase in B.C. Tel's tariffs allowing it to earn the rates of return judged appropriate in the Canadian transport commission's decision of No-vember, 1975."

I you don't believe your youngsters should see such violent rubbish — and surely you don't — then do not re-lent. Say "No!" And stick to

That was the advice Prof. Potter gave me after his re-cent talk on the effects of TV violence on children to about wood RCMP's eight-session

Good thing that program was, Dealt with problems like drugs traffic, alcoholism and the protection of women. As Constable Don Alexander. who ran! the program, ex-plained, it was designed to get people involved in preventing crime and to let people know and picking people up.

Don told me, incidentally, he'll be leaving soon to teach at the police academy in Re-gina and his crime preven-tion-community relations proram will be taken over by wood detachment and Corp. Potter, who looks a lot like singer Jack Jones, charmed and frightened his audience with a smooth presentation of the awesome consequences of too much TV ogling. It was obvious, of course, down on the crass commercialism of North American television. It is owned, operated and presented by people ing money, he pointed out. It's a business, a very profit-able business, he said, and he compared it with Britian, which has only one commer-cial and two non-commercial channels; with Japan, which ucational channel that operates 12 hours a day, and with Germany, which allows only half an hour of commercials in the morning and half an hour in the afternoon and has clear viewing the rest of Potter's talk was simply riddled with statistics, and quite frightening ones at that. But I'll just throw a few at

Ask The Times

Q. What is the origin of the jury system, and why is it 12 jurors for criminal cases?

A: The jury's real origin lies in the ancient inquisition of the Carolingian kings dat-ing from the 9th century where groups of disinterested neighbors were required to royal rights, according to En-cyclopaedia Britannica. This institution was carried into the Duchy of Normandy and thence to England via the King Henry II (1154-89) re quired in 1166 that 12 men be present at every county court sion to present to his jus tices the nemes of persons su-spected by them of serious crime — the beginning of the grand jury. But the persons named by the grand jury were sent to trial by ordeal, in which the defendant was subjected to various tortures that if successfully endured proved his innocence.

King Henry III ordered substitution of judgment by neighbors for the ordeal in mid-14th century that the mid-14th century that he grand jury became separate from the petit or trial jury.

The size of the petit or trial jury was set at 12 in 1367.
